

“I think I make choices like that also,” said Sassy. “Last night I had to choose if I was going to stay up late in my room and read. If I stayed up late, I would get to read more. If I stayed up late, I would be tired today. If I went to sleep, I would not get to read. If I went to sleep, I would feel good today.”